To avoid fraud

City seeks change in building codes

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Lenient building regulations in Romulus which make it relatively simple for contractors to bilk homeowners apparently are on their way out.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt is urging the Michigan Legislature to make some strengthening changes in the Builders Trust Fund Act while altering the city's practice of making final inspections of home improvements.

Wells must pay $1,000 more than the improvements should cost.

He said the city now will require contractors to furnish proof that they have paid all debts to suppliers before the city makes a final inspection of a home.

AFTER THE final inspection is made, the contractor then may be paid by the bank which originally issued the home improvement loan to the homeowner.

WITHOUT THE inspection approval by the city, the contractor cannot obtain his money. Present city codes do not require proof of payment of debts.

The action was taken when it became apparent that a Romulus resident allegedly was defrauded by a contractor who installed aluminum siding on the man's house.

Moses Wells of 5840 Washington St. faces the possibility of having his house forcibly sold in the wake of a court order, instructing him to pay $1,000 to a building supplies firm.

According to Wells, he contracted the M.D. Building Corp. of Detroit to install aluminum siding on his home at a cost of $2,600. He was granted a loan by Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, and his credit was verified by the contractor.

THE CONTRACTOR then obtained the building supplies on credit, installed the siding and received his pay from the bank. He, however, did not pay his building supplies debt and shortly thereafter declared bankruptcy.

A state law, governing the matter, allows the suppliers, United Products Corp. of Detroit, to then demand payment for the materials, $1,000 from the homeowner. The courts have upheld the law and ordered Wells to pay the cost or have his home sold to satisfy the debt.

Wells must pay $1,000 more than the improvements should have cost.

Romulus officials don't think that's right.

SPURRED ON BY a resolution by Troutt, the Romulus City Council has authorized the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to conduct an investigation into fraudulent building practices by merchants within the city, including a thorough investigation of Wells' plight.

Citizens gaining lawsuit support

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Romulus citizens seeking to secure an injunction against a runway expansion program at Detroit Metropolitan Airport have cleared their final financial hurdle, as the Romulus Board of Education unanimously voted to pledge its support and a much-needed $15,000 for the impending court suit.

The action came after the City of Romulus last Tuesday elected to take up the fight against the airport. It also pledged $15,000 toward the proceedings.

A $30,000 price tag has been placed on the injunction suit alone. The figure does not include any costs which may arise through a damage suit later on.

The Romulus City Council and school board have agreed to divide the $30,000 cost.

Romulus School Supt. Robert McConeghy, in his plea for the school board's support, cited physical damage done to several of the district's schools by noise from airplanes passing overhead and the noise effect on students' learning abilities, as reasons why the board should join the suit.

However, he pointed out, and was supported by the board, that the district's involvement in the lawsuit should not extend into litigation in establishing possible airplane landing and departure curfews and similar details, which likely will surface, if the injunction is secured.

"If the board decides to enter into litigation, it cannot be in conflict with the city," McConeghy said. "If the city goes after the curfew idea, say in banning air traffic from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m., the school board can't enter because that wouldn't help the schools."

THE SCHOOLS would prefer a curfew lasting from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"The board should agree to give $15,000 for the entirety of the injunction litigation and not participate further unless it affects the schools," he said. McConeghy said the board would follow directives issued by school attorney Richard Mosher on the legality of the school district in pursuing further the airport fight the area of damage suits.

The most affected schools in scheduled to begin "before the end of this month."

"I think the airport's needs are pretty well spelled out in the EIS," Zolik added. "The statement has been approved and adopted by the Federal Aviation Administration

'I think the airport's needs are pretty spelled out.'

(FAA) and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), and the airport expect the runway project to progress.

"Airport officials know there is a need for the runway. The road commission tries to maximize the potential of what it has, and I think if the potential is there, it should be maximized."

ZOLIK SAID he is not fearful of an injunction which could snarl the construction plans, but conceded that such a move by the courts could "set back the timetable on completing the runway." He added that the project may wind up being scrapped in the event of a prolonged injunction.

"That's one of the things officials may have to face," he said.

Zolik said he still has not had any direct contact from the homeowners' association, city or school board on the matter. He said he does not know the scope of the complaints or how the residents are affected by the airplane noise problem.

He did note, however, that "the homes were built after the airport was built."

"The courts will have to make the final determination in this, but you must remember that the way of life society sets forth today requires expressways, incinerators and airports," he said.

In airport's expansion

Evaluation could be key to battle

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

One of the key points expected to be stressed by a Romulus group seeking to delay or stop proposed runway expansion at Detroit Metropolitan Airport via a court injunction, is that an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), filed by the airport, does not show sufficient need for a new runway.

A California attorney, representing the Romulus Airport Neighborhood Action Committee, City of Romulus and Romulus Community School District, has indicated that the EIS is "woefully inadequate," and should give the complainants sufficient grounds to request an injunction against the construction.

However, Michael Zolik, assistant managing director of the Wayne County Road Commission, which operates the airport, said there is a need for the proposed runway, planned to run north-east to southwest.

IN ADDITION, he said the construction contract has been awarded and building is

Mayor backs landfill refuse system

City considers county plan

Romulus will have to make a decision in the near future on whether to design its own rubbish disposal plan, continue to contract for rubbish removal or join a county-wide proposal to build five incinerators at a cost in excess of $200 million.

Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said the city must decide, since Wayne County has to know how to include the community in 10-year solid waste disposal master plan that must be presented to the state by the end of August.

He advocates the city's return to using landfills as its primary method of solid waste disposal with the incinerator system proposed as his second choice.

"A LAND FILL is the most natural thing," Troutt said. "A landfill exclusively for the city and operated by the city would save Romulus a tremendous amount of money, and the city already has the land available for it."

Romulus has a rubbish removal contract with American Rubbish Disposal Co. of Plymouth which expires next June. Another contract could be negotiated, the city could provide its own waste disposal or it could elect to join in the county's program, Troutt said.

The mayor, however, prefers having Romulus go its own way.

"Romulus has done it before, with landfills," he said. "The perfect area for them would be land south of Ecorse Road parallel to the C & O Railroad tracks, which was a landfill at one time."

THE LANDFILL could be a two-fold thing. The excess sand from digging it out could be used by the city in parks and other projects."

The parcel of land Troutt is eyeing is approximately 40 acres. He believes a landfill there would have a "life" of 20 to 30 years. However, the popularity of using landfills is doubtful, the mayor said.

"There were a lot of complaints about the landfills when the city had them from 1955 to the early 1960s in the Elmer Johnson Park area. The operation then moved to the area south of Ecorse Road," Troutt said.

BUT THE MAYOR still wants to avoid the rising cost of waste disposal.

"The city's contractor will want more money, if it negotiates another contract next year, so I don't think the city would go back to that," he said. "The city will probably end up going with the incinerators."

"Either way, Romulus must let the county know in 30 days. It's up to the council which road it wants to travel."

Romulus City Council President and Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnally said she hasn't been approached by Troutt on the landfill subject.

Romulus will pay $110,639 this year for rubbish pickup at 7,100 units (homes and buildings), or 38-cents per unit per week, said Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar.

ESTIMATED COST for the five incinerators has been set at $289 million.

Troutt is receptive to the incinerator idea on the basis of the results of such a project in Canada.

Romulus schools support program of summer recreation for children

Romulus Community Schools officials have given their blessing to a proposed summer recreation program for Harrison Elementary School students, scheduled to begin tomorrow and continue through Aug. 16.

Conducted in the Harrison multi-purpose room, the 3-day-per-week program specifically will involve students ages eight-12 from the school who live in the Meadows and Applewood subdivisions.

The "Summer Discovery Program" will operate from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Wednesdays through Fridays. Each Thursday will be set aside for trips to such places as the Detroit Zoo, Belle Isle, Greenfield Village and other areas of interest in the metropolitan Detroit area.

WEDNESDAY AND Friday programs will consist of games, arts and crafts and sing-a-longs. A cold lunch will be provided for each child every day. There is no cost to the program's participants. They fully will be insured.

The program is sponsored by the YWCA of Western Wayne County and the Greenview Citizens for Action. The Meadows and Applewood subdivisions are in the larger residential area called Greenview.

ACCORDING TO Summer Discovery's director, John McQuary, the program is designed to give children "something to do" and is attempting to alleviate some of the vandalism in the subdivisions.

Much of the vandalism in the area is caused by the children—many of whom have nothing else to occupy their time, he added.

"The problem is that most of the subdivisions in the area are going downhill because of vandalism," he said. "The group wants to do something with the kids to keep them active and give them something to do."

"In effect, it hopes to give the kids a good experience this summer."

The recreation program does not operate in conjunction with the city recreation department.

School officials attend education conference

Six officials from two area school districts were among the 62 who took part in a recent educational conference co-sponsored by Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) and Congressman John D. Dingell (D-16th District).

Included in those who took part were Carl W. Morris and Gloria Chandler of the Romulus Board of Education and Supt. Dale E. Kaulitz and Director of Business Affairs Irvin Von Destino, of the Van Buren School District along with Vice-president Doris J. Roe and Trustee Richard R. Muse of the Van Buren Board of Education.

The annual 3-day program is designed to give local school officials an opportunity to hear information on legislation and programs offering assistance to school districts.

One of the highlights of this year's conference was an appearance by Dr. Terrell Bell, newly appointed U.S. Commissioner of Education. Dr. Bell, a native of Utah, had been acting commissioner in 1970-71, and earlier served seven years as State Superintendent of Utah schools. For the past two years, he had been local superintendent in Salt Lake City.

The Romulus Jaycee Auxiliary has joined the list of contributors, in aiding the city's Eager Beaver Parents program with a $92.50 donation. Eager Beaver Parents are parents of retarded children. The funds go toward the operation of a day camp in the city for the youngsters. It was organized by the Family and Neighborhood Services agency.

The auxiliary's donation was one of several received by the day camp. The Romulus Jaycees, Romulus Progressive Club and Kiwanians are some of the organizations which have made contributions. The Romulus Community School District's Board of Education not only provides the day camp center, but supplies bus service to the 3-day-a-week camp. The local YWCA provides free lunches for camp members.

Quick thinking saves life of man

A Wayne man credits his recently-acquired knowledge of artificial respiration with saving a Dearborn Heights man struck by lightning while golfing at Romulus' Shady Hollow Golf Course.

Bud Daniels of 4260 Eastlawn St., was playing through a storm on the course at Wick and Wayne roads last week when he saw three lightning bolts hit only yards away. One of the bolts, however, struck two golfers on an adjacent fairway.

The bolt of electricity knocked out one of the men while the other sustained burns on a leg.

ACCORDING TO Daniels' wife, her husband applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation methods to the unconscious man, when he stopped breathing.

Ronald McIntyre, 32, of Dearborn Heights, regained consciousness, Mrs. Daniels said. He was taken to Wayne County General Hospital along with a golfing partner, E.T. Scheper of Dearborn by Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol deputies.

McIntyre is listed in fair condition while Scheper was treated and released, hospital authorities said.

According to Mrs. Daniels, her husband's rescue efforts "probably saved the man's life."

"IF IT HADN'T been for my husband's artificial respiration treatments, I don't know if the man would have lived," she said. "Luckily, our son had recently given us a lesson in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation."

The son, Elmer, a Wayne fireman, had instructed the Daniels in emergency respiration by using his

Sheriff's unit to aid Romulus

Three additional Wayne County Sheriff's Department officers, sought by Romulus to beef up law enforcement in the city, will begin patrols Monday.

Romulus City Council approved the city's request for three officers to be assigned to Romulus exclusively and that a sheriff's department substation be manned in the Romulus Department of Public Works (DPW) building on Bibbins Street.

"The city has had inadequate robbery and juvenile case follow up in the past, so the acquisition of these officers helps round out its law enforcement program as far as what it wants to do," Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt said.

Scheduled to work exclusively within Romulus, though still governed by the sheriff's department, the new patrol includes two criminal investigators and one officer to deal with juvenile cases.

The juvenile officer is Bill Chapoton of Taylor. The other two officers are Clarence Johnson of Westland and Gerald Murphy of Garden City.

The city will pay the county $72,386 yearly for the additional police services. The amount will be paid quarterly.

The officers will work 5-day weeks and use their own cars while on duty, limiting the expense to the city. The city plans to reimburse them for gasoline and car maintenance costs approximately $4,800 per year.

Building code irks officials

The resolution further states that if a violation of the state's Building Trust Fund Act is believed to have occurred as in the Wells' case, the sheriff's department will take "any and all action required to prosecute the offending party or parties involved."

The act holds the contractor liable and not the homeowner in such cases, which the sheriff's department also will investigate.

"The law allowing the supplies to go back to the homeowner for the money should be changed in the legislature," Troutt said. "No lending institute (the bank) should be allowed to release money to the contractor until he furnishes proof of payment of his suppliers."

"THE CITY IS going to start making the contractors give it that proof before it gives final inspection of the home."

Although the contracting firm in the Wells case has declared bankruptcy, the city is asking the county prosecutor to start action against the firm, Troutt said.

"The city is going to see if Wells can get a stay on the court order to pay the $1,000," Troutt said.

Association eyes law on protection

Attorneys for the Wayne County Township Supervisors Association expect to report to the association by mid-July on their search for legal means to require the Wayne County Road Patrol to provide police protection to communities without requiring special contract rates.

The townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren along with others in Wayne County have banded together to battle the proposed sheriff's road patrol change through the association.

Louis Wechsler of the firm Wechsler and Wechsler in Detroit said he is searching Michigan law back to the time the area became a territory to find a requirement that the county sheriff's department must protect a township.

IT'S A LOT of labor to research back in the law to determine just when the counties began providing police protection to townships and why," Wechsler said. "I have found some language in state law which requires every county to have its own sheriff's department, which will perform duties as stipulated by the state legislature but I have found nothing where the legislature outlines the sheriff's duties.

"At this time, I'm searching back into common law, not only for Michigan but also for England, to determine whether there is any requirement that the sheriff must provide protection to the townships without requiring the townships to pay extra for the protection."

Districts to receive school aid

The portion of the more than $11 million in state and federal aid to Michigan schools appropriated to districts in Western Wayne County was received last month.

The bulk of that aid, $10,792,500, came in the form of state school aid. Of that amount, Van Buren Public Schools received $430,470; Romulus Community Schools $419,523, and Huron School District, $363,055.

Federal aid for vocational education programs, geared toward children from economically - deprived homes, and innovative educational programs developed by local school districts also was allocated.

Resident campaigns in election

Romulus resident Edgar Nietens is campaigning against Jack Underwood of Westland for the Republican nomination in the 15th U.S. Congressional District.

Nietens is hoping to unseat incumbent Congressman William Ford, a Democrat.

Community affairs interest Ford's family

By BUD VESTAL

Editor's note: To know Jerry Ford is to know his adoptive father, a benevolent autocrat who stood squarely for the work ethic and the old virtues. Chapter 3 of "Jerry Ford, Up Close" recounts the formative years.

Jerry Ford was born July 14, 1913, in Omaha, Neb., to Dorothy (nee Gardner) King, wife of Leslie King, a Montana wool trader. When Jerry was two, his parents were divorced, and Mrs. King moved to Grand Rapids. There she met and married Gerald R. Ford, a paint salesman. Ford came to love Jerry and adopted him.

Jerry knew this history, vaguely, but never thought about it much until one day when he was serving hamburgers at a restaurant across the street from South High School, a man entered and told him: "I'm your father."

THE OVERRIDING influence in his life as a child and as a mature man was his adoptive father.

Gerald R. Ford Sr., a strong, self-made and very inner-directed man, was the absolute, final authority in the Ford family, an informal autocrat of the dinner table.

Dad asked only three things of his one adopted and three natural sons, Dick, Tom and Jim: that they work hard to make something of themselves, speak the truth and come to dinner on time.

The only instance of physical punishment the Ford brothers remember was when, in Dick's words: "Tom came to dinner late with an excuse that wasn't acceptable, and Dad broke a ruler over the seat of his britches."

JERRY'S FATHER and mother were active in community affairs as far back as their sons can remember.

Dad Ford was a charter director of one of the earliest programs of help for ghetto youth. It started with a recreation house in the highest-crime-rate area of Grand Rapids.

Mrs. Ford had her own social and community projects; the local symphony and musical programs; Grace Episcopal Church programs, and activities including fund-raisers for charity.

Mrs. Ella Koeze, a family friend, recalled that although Dorothy Ford's health was not good, she was nevertheless "vivacious, effervescent, fun to be with."

MRS. FORD WAS known to say on occasion that "if Dad would give as much time to the paint business as to public affairs, we'd be rich."

Nevertheless, for a man who had dropped out of high school in the 10th grade, Ford Sr., was no slouch at business. He early went into business for himself as a paint manufacturer.

The factory started up just three weeks before the stock-market crash. Later came the "bank holiday," a euphemism

Within two days after the banks had closed Ford received a telegram from the Dupont Co., telling him to keep on ordering materials for paint manufacture; both parties could worry about payment later.

for the loss of most savings accounts and business checking accounts.

DAD FORD WAS encouraged and essayed to "work something out" with his plant force of 10 persons.

"We can give you $5 a week to buy groceries and fuel and keep going," he told his employees. "I plan to give myself the same amount in cash. When things get better, we will pay you back the difference between the $5 and your normal pay, however long it takes."

The employees stayed with Ford and ultimately were paid in full.

With the onset of the Depression the oldest three sons quickly learned how paint was made and spent summers working in the factory.

IN THE EARLY 1930s it was necessary for Jerry to work. first at a small restaurant and then waiting fraternity-house tables at the University of Michigan (U-M). It was the "Deke" house, and he eventually became house manager and a member of the fraternity.

After graduation from the U-M he was offered a job as assistant football and boxing coach at Yale. And lacking funds to enter the U-M Law School as he had hoped, he saw it as a ticket to a law degree.

Ford Sr. argued that there was little future in football coaching, but Jerry argued it would be only temporary and there was a good law school right at Yale. He took the job.

Football was one of the biggest influences on Ford's life. It brought him to public attention as a teen-ager, it was a ticket to a university education and a law degree. It enhanced his courtship of Betty Bloomer, who studied under famous dancer and choreographer Martha Graham and believed, as Jerry did, in physical grace and fitness.

WHEN JERRY FORD played football for South High School in Grand Rapids, he was named all-city center three years in a row.

Unlike many high school athletes Jerry was not gregarious or outgoing, school contemporary recalled. He didn't cavort of joke or give trouble to teachers. Even then he was all business.

He sought good grades and got them and spent little time with girls. One girl, who was in a junior-year American history class with Jerry, recalls:

"Jerry was big and handsome and two years older. And I had a problem. My father, who, as it happened, was athletic director at Union High, wouldn't let me date because I was only 15."

"I HAD BOYFRIENDS, we used to go across the street to the restaurant at lunchtime and dance to the jukebox, but you never saw Jerry there, of course."

"Well, I got this idea if I could only get Jerry out to my house, Dad would be impressed by him as an example of South High boys and let me date. So I tried to get Jerry to visit my home."

"No success: He never would come. I got the impression of a fellow with the mind of a child in a man's body, a big St. Bernard."

At the U-M, Jerry was as popular as he had been in high school. But the football situation was different.

"WHERE'S YOUR black player?" the Georgia Tech lineman taunted, in one of football history's most ill-advised japes. Three plays later he went off the field on a stretcher. He had been hit simultaneously by Ford and guard William Borgmann.

The black player was Willis F. Ward. He was listening to the game over radio because Georgia Tech had vowed to take the field if Michigan's black player did.

Ward, almost 30 years later, recalled the incident:

"It was the third game of the season, and dropping me from the lineup for racist reasons did something to team morale. We just never got together as a close-knit team after that."

"AND I DIDN'T play that day because Coach Harry Kipke was told not to put me in uniform. The administration wasn't eager to have blacks on the team anyway. Kipke finally got enough alumni support to put me on the varsity, and I was the first black to play a full three years of varsity football for Michigan."

Ford had agonized the night before and almost decided not to suit up or go on the field himself.

One reason Ford decided to play was that it was at best a scratched-together Michigan team. The loss of a good lineman might mean defeat. All through 1932 and 1933 they had been undefeated, Big Ten champions. Then a mass graduation of varsity players left Kipke with three regular starters and a mob of eager stringers.

The year never got any better after the Georgia Tech game, which Michigan won 9-2. It was the only game Michigan won that year.

FORD PUT HIS feelings about his football years into words 25 years later when he was named one of Sports Illustrated's silver-anniversary all-America roster of football players.

"Thanks to my football experience, I know the value of team play," Jerry said. "It is, I believe, one of the most important lessons to be learned and practiced in our lives. You learn to accept discipline. My experiences in games like that with Minnesota helped me many times to face a tough situation in World War II or, in the rough-and-tumble of politics, to take action and make every effort possible despite adverse odds."

Even after graduation from Michigan Jerry Ford was not done with football. He played in the 1935 Shrine East-West game, and then moved on to Yale as an assistant to handle the freshman football squad and also coach boxing.

Ford was proud later that his academic record at Yale from 1935 to 1941 was as good as his record at the U-M: B average.

LIFE WAS NOT all grind, grunt and sweat at Yale. Ford began to expand his social life.

One of his early girlfriends was Phyllis Brown, a student at Connecticut College for Women. On Jerry's part it was almost a steady-date situation for 4½ years, and it led to Ford's first business investment—in the modeling business.

After leaving college, Phyllis had become a Powers model in New York. She met Harry Conover, a male model and she wrote to Jerry: "You and he ought to go into business with each other; there's room for another agency." Ford agreed to put up $1,000 cash; Conover was to furnish the expertise.

The modeling business succeeded all right. And in March, 1940, Jerry himself took a fling at modeling for Look magazine.

HE AND PHYLLIS went to New England in sports outfits and ski clothing. The article in Look was about beautiful young people who pursued outdoor sports. Of the 21 photo illustrations, Ford appeared in 17—looking very good, indeed.

The Conover agency succeeded, but Jerry never worked at running any part of it, and eventually got out.

"Expenses must have been very high because I didn't receive what I thought I might be entitled to," he said.

Ford was admitted to the Michigan bar in June of 1941, and he and a friend, Philip Buchen, launched their infant law firm. Within six months the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor had canceled their plan indefinitely.

FORD WENT INTO uniform April 20, 1942, and his service record notes it was as "volunteer, special service (desk duties)." He was commissioned directly as an ensign under a program aimed at fast recruitment of athletes to form a cadre of physical-training instructors.

He spent a year giving physical training to Navy aviation cadets—and writing letters through channels volunteering for sea duty. Finally Ford's persistence won assignment to the new light aircraft carrier USS Monterey, then being readied for duty in the Pacific.

One day in mid-December 1944, The Monterey was with the Third Fleet when it was hit by a typhoon. Winds capsized three destroyers and drowned their crews. The Monterey was wallowing helplessly in giant waves when the general-stations call was sounded.

Trying to get to his station on the bridge, Ford stepped out on the heaving flight deck, lost his footing, slid over the side, and dropped neatly into a catwalk a few feet down. He was unhurt but spent a moment before climbing back up on deck to wonder if the Ford luck was about to fail him. It didn't; he made station; the Monterey weathered the storm, and every major naval battle during the final phase of the Pacific War, from the Gilbert Islands, Okinawa.

CAPTAIN L.T. Hundt, the Monterey's commanding officer, gave to the now Lt. Ford the best possible rating report in his officer's record file—a maximum of number four.

As we see it

Celebration on July 4 deserves big thanks

It brings more than 20,000 residents together. And that figure includes many residents of Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpster township, Romulus and others across Western Wayne County.

The annual July 4 celebration on Belleville Lake is a community involvement project. It's a worthwhile collective merging of efforts to present to the residents of the area fun and enjoyment on Independence Day.

The residents don't have to travel very far for entertainment on July 4. They can stay at home with their loved ones, hop into their cars or ride a bicycle to Belleville Lake.

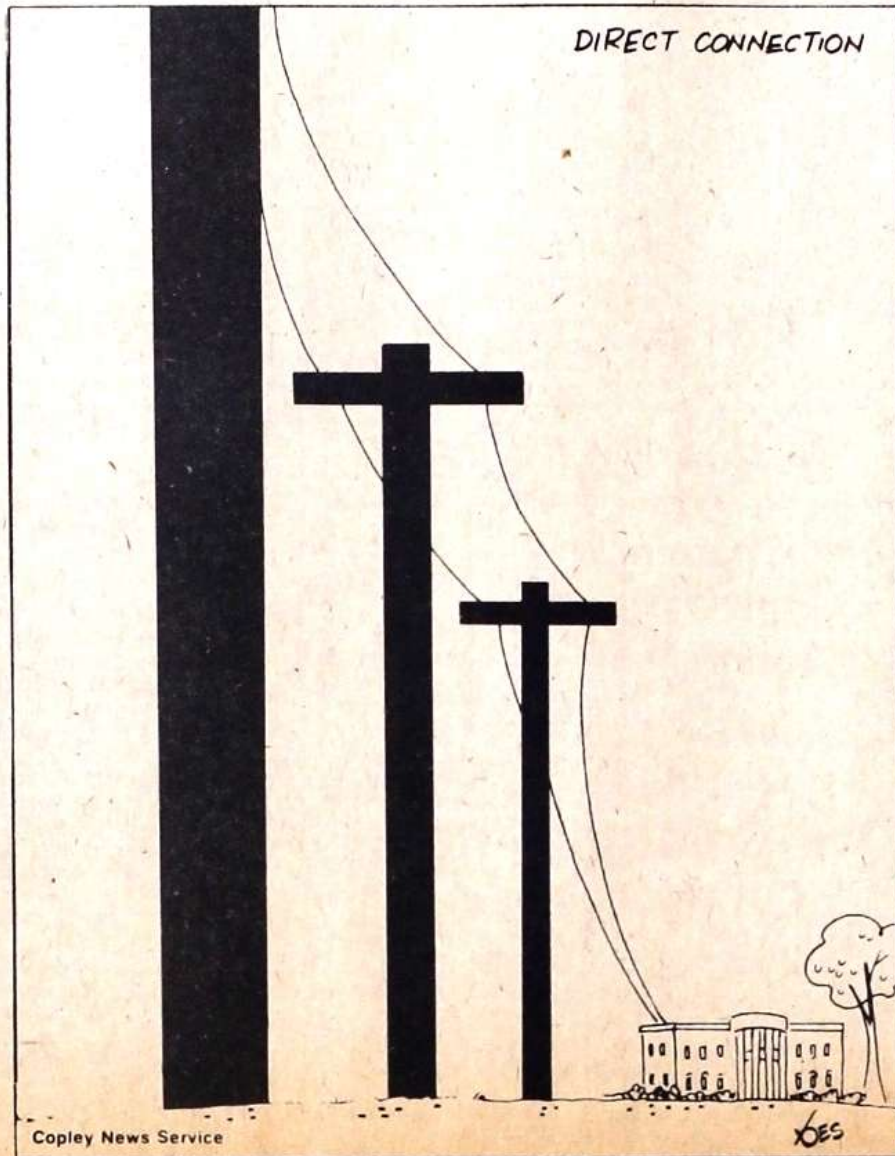

The annual July 4 celebration brings people together and the individuals and organizations involved in its success should be thanked and congratulated for their effort by all.

And since it would be impossible for those more than 20,000 individuals who watched the fire works display and the water show on Belleville Lake to say "thank you" to the hundreds of organizers and performers, we would like to do that for them.

"Thank you" members of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce; the Belleville Jaycees; participants in the Belleville Lake Water Ski Show; members of the Belleville Police Department, the Van Buren Police Department and the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol for their direction and control assistance, and thank you to all the other organizations providing concessions for the enjoyment of the crowds.

The Independence Day celebration was a success 20 years ago when it was first conceived. And it was a success this year, thanks to the dedicated effort of many community members.

Create impossible situation

Info leaks destroy reputations

If President Nixon escapes impeachment, which now rates as at least a possibility, it will be because the White House has convinced the American people that the leaking of confidential information unfairly destroys reputations and makes the conduct of government almost impossible.

It is surprising that the public relations brains in the administration have not hit that point harder before. Maybe their reticence stems from the fact that everyone in Washington uses the leak as a tool at some time or other.

That goes for occupants of the White House Oval Office, cabinet members, senators on down the social scale to shoe shine boys.

RECENTLY, observers have noted a slight shift of public opinion in favor of the President in the Watergate mess.

This can be attributed, many people believe, to the flood of leaks from the House Judiciary Committee considering whether or not the President should be impeached.

Many of the people who did the leaking were so bitterly hostile to the president that they "over egged the pudding" as the saying goes, their attempt to damage him produced the inevitable backlash.

For once the administration sensed the way the tide was turning and moved to take advantage of the change.

WHITE HOUSE sources and the President's friends in Congress passed the word that the American public now could judge for itself how fair it was for some committee members to engage in a calculated, malicious campaign to destroy the President.

And this was being done, it was pointed out, by means of anonymous, unsubstantiated charges which smacked of the old "McCarthyite" guilt-by-association techniques of the 1950s.

If Nixon can convince the public that he has been victimized in this way, the whole impeachment thing comes down to an ordinary political dog fight of conservatives vs. liberals. On that basis he has a chance to beat the whole rap.

That is assuming, of course, that no more Watergate sensations surface as they have been at regular intervals for the past year.

BECAUSE THE administration botched his case in such a miserable way, Daniel Ellsberg, the man who leaked the Pentagon Papers, has remained above the storm.

Yet in any other country in the world, including such old Democracies as Britain, anyone accused and convicted of making public highly confidential government information, would expect to serve the next 10 to 20 years in prison.

The law codes of the majority of countries, large and small, contain something equivalent to "an official secrets act." All of these statutes provide severe penalties for trafficking in confidential government documents, particularly those dealing with the issues of war and peace.

While agreeing that the Nixon administration has had to put up with a great deal of underhanded activities, a case can be made that the suspicious atmosphere in the White House itself tended to encourage leaks.

THIS POINT WAS made by Paul H. Netze, who recently resigned as a member of the U.S. Delegation to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

He insisted that right from the beginning the Nixon administration did not project "an adequate degree of trust" in its own senior officials.

The leaking of the Pentagon Papers by Ellsberg, "seemed to me to be totally improper, but the effect thereof was to increase the suspicion of people down the line," he said.

Netze maintained that when subordinates fully are informed on government objectives, there is little danger of leaks to the press.

THE OPPOSITE is true when an up-tight atmosphere prevails.

Maybe the size of the media now has something to do with the problem. Twenty or 30 years ago, when only a relative handful of newsmen covered the White House and the State Department, reporters themselves would hold back on some pieces of news which obviously would damage the country until other developments had removed that danger.

In Britain there is a secrets protecting system called a "D Notice" which operates through the managements of newspapers and radio and television networks.

At bargaining table

Boards look like good guys

Local school boards are trying to make themselves look like the good guys in their annual meeting with their teachers at the collective bargaining table.

The 4,200 member Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB) has made periodic pleas to the legislature to iron-out the rough spot in the public employe collective bargaining law, so schools can open on time this fall.

Claiming to represent more than 600 local school boards, the MASB, said that Michigan's children deserve an uninterrupted education this fall.

IN MARCH, the MASB said:

Voice of the people

Dedication brings total enjoyment

To The Editor: Edgemont Elementary School students presented "The Hobbit" Super timing a brilliantly executed musical score and fantastic sets proved again what dedication and community involvement can achieve.

The children, teachers and parents had rehearsed this program since last fall and the results were everywhere. A great spider web filled the stage where costumed spiders danced.

A fire-breathing dragon reared on its haunches and a black serpent slithered out of the orchestra pit to taunt the

"We believe our children to be Michigan's most valuable resource. We sincerely hope that the state legislature will not permit parents, children and taxpayers to be subjected to another bitter and futile series of apparently programmed statewide teachers' strikes."

A month later, the MASB again prodded the legislature with a statement saying:

"If Michigan public school children are to be guaranteed an uninterrupted education this fall, it is imperative that the Michigan Legislature address itself to changes in collective bargaining legislation."

THESE WERE followed in June with two more requests for legislative action.

"The MASB urges the legislature to avoid further delay in dealing with this serious problem area..." said MASB president-elect John J. Engels, a member of the Millington Board of Education.

Throughout the MASB's calls for action, the state's teacher unions remained relatively silent on this fall's anticipated problems in teacher-school board bargaining.

At its spring convention, the states largest teacher union, the Michigan Education Association (MEA), said it wanted the outright repeal of the state law which prohibits teachers from striking and it also called for strict penalties to be levied against school boards which fail to bargain in good faith.

A SITUATION was developing where the MASB was calling for a joint effort to keep school doors open this fall and where the MEA looked as if it was mobilizing for a long stint at the picket lines.

The school board association even said it was willing to bend on its position against teacher strikes. If teachers are given a limited right-to-strike, the MASB said that the state should repeal the requirement that school be in session for 180 days.

The longer the legislature waits, the MASB said "public school labor relations problems become much more difficult to resolve at a later date."

Meanwhile, it's an election year and state lawmakers aren't anxious to tackle a problem which is bound to alienate a large block of voters.

But when the school doors still are closed in late September, the local school boards will be able to point to a handful of press releases which said they tried to find a solution to the strike problem.

WORKSHOP PARTICIPANT — Belleville High School student Sharon Petrasky (left) joins Beth Van Ornam of East Greenbush, N.Y. in trying to make aspirin in an experiment during a visit at Michigan

Technological University in Houghton. The two students were among a group of 100 young women from 10 states to take part in a week-long workshop on the engineering profession.

Engineering seminar aims at large female enrollment

Making aspirin was one of several activities a Belleville High School student learned during a recent engineering workshop at Michigan Technological University in Houghton, Mich.

Sharon Petrasky was one of 100 girls from 10 states selected to attend the week-long program.

Sponsored by the university and 45 industrial firms, the program is aimed at encouraging young women to pursue careers in the engineering field.

Through the use of lectures, laboratory sessions, special projects and field trips, the workshop participants are introduced to the fields of civil, electrical, metallurgical, geological, mechanical and chemical engineering.

The workshop also exposed them to the fields of computer science and applied technology.

The workshop, held for the first time last year, attracted half of the original 100 participants into the engineering profession at the northern Michigan university and other colleges.

Miss Petrasky is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Petrasky of 45290 Harmony Lane, Belleville. A senior at Belleville High School, she has been active in the German and Physics clubs, National Honor Society and marching and symphony bands.

Law enforcement agencies collect additional funding

Several Detroit and Wayne County departments and agencies have been awarded $5.8 million more in 12 law enforcement and administration grants, according to the Detroit-Wayne County Criminal Justice System Coordinating Council.

The grants were awarded June 28 by the Michigan Office of Criminal Justice Programs.

Nearly $38 million of federal, state and local funds have been provided for the City of Detroit, Wayne County and suburban criminal justice agencies since 1968.

The largest of the grants, $2,300,000 in federal money, was awarded to the County Juvenile Facility Network to maintain its program of juvenile justice.

A goal of the program is to reduce youth crime in Wayne County by 25 to 50 per cent by mid-1979. The money will fund 31 private and public anti-delinquency projects throughout next year.

An award of $1,810,500, the second-largest grant, was given to the County Criminal Justice Institute, formed to give training to people employed in criminal justice disciplines.

INCLUDED IN THE

Touses attend program

A Belleville man is one of more than 20,000 Kiwanians from across the world who attended the 59th Annual Kiwanis International Convention in Denver, Colo.

John R. Touse, and his wife Pat, of 12465 Van Allen Rd., attended the June 23 through 26 convention.

The Touses were among the officials representing more than 276,000 Kiwanians in 6,315 Kiwanis Clubs who attended. During the convention, the delegates shaped Kiwanis International's 1974-75 community service program for the 45 countries in the world which welcome the Kiwanis movement.

Student receives honors

Taking her place on the list of honor students for Bethel College's spring semester was Belleville resident Barbara Krake, a 1971 graduate of East Jordan High School.

The daughter of The Rev. and Mrs. Marcus S. Krake of 61 Edgemont, Ms Krake is a senior in elementary education at Bethel.

House of Correction.

Wayne County gained six other grants, including three for the Prosecutor's Office for a consumer protection unit, an intern project and an office administrator, totalling $495,210. The consumer protection unit was given $430,159, the largest share in this package.

In conjunction with the Legal Aid and Defenders Association, these funds will enable the Prosecutor to offer consumer education and mediation of disputes between customer and merchant for the first time.

THE WAYNE COUNTY Sheriff's Department received two awards of $462,431 for continuation of the metropolitan narcotics and helicopter squads.

Dearborn was given $89,940 to continue its police cadet program, and the City of Livonia received $22,500 to provide services to all Wayne County police departments in the development of computer information systems.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

HAROLD REDISKI, HAROLD REDISKI, JR. - DIRECTORS

Did you ever wonder how the Christian flag, seen in churches, had its origin? A speaker engaged for a "rally service" in the Brighton Chapel in Coney Island, N.Y., failed to appear on time on Sept. 26, 1897. Mr. Charles C. Overton, superintendent of the church school, substituted for the speaker and unexplainably began to talk about the American flag. Suddenly, he envisioned a flag for the church; a flag unrestricted by geographical or creedal boundaries; a flag to remind all people of their allegiance to God. Extemporaneously, on the spur of the moment, he described a Christian flag as he envisioned it. He pictured a field of white, signifying purity, innocence and peace; in the corner a union of deep blue for a symbol of faith, trust and sincerity - with a Latin cross emblazoned in red.

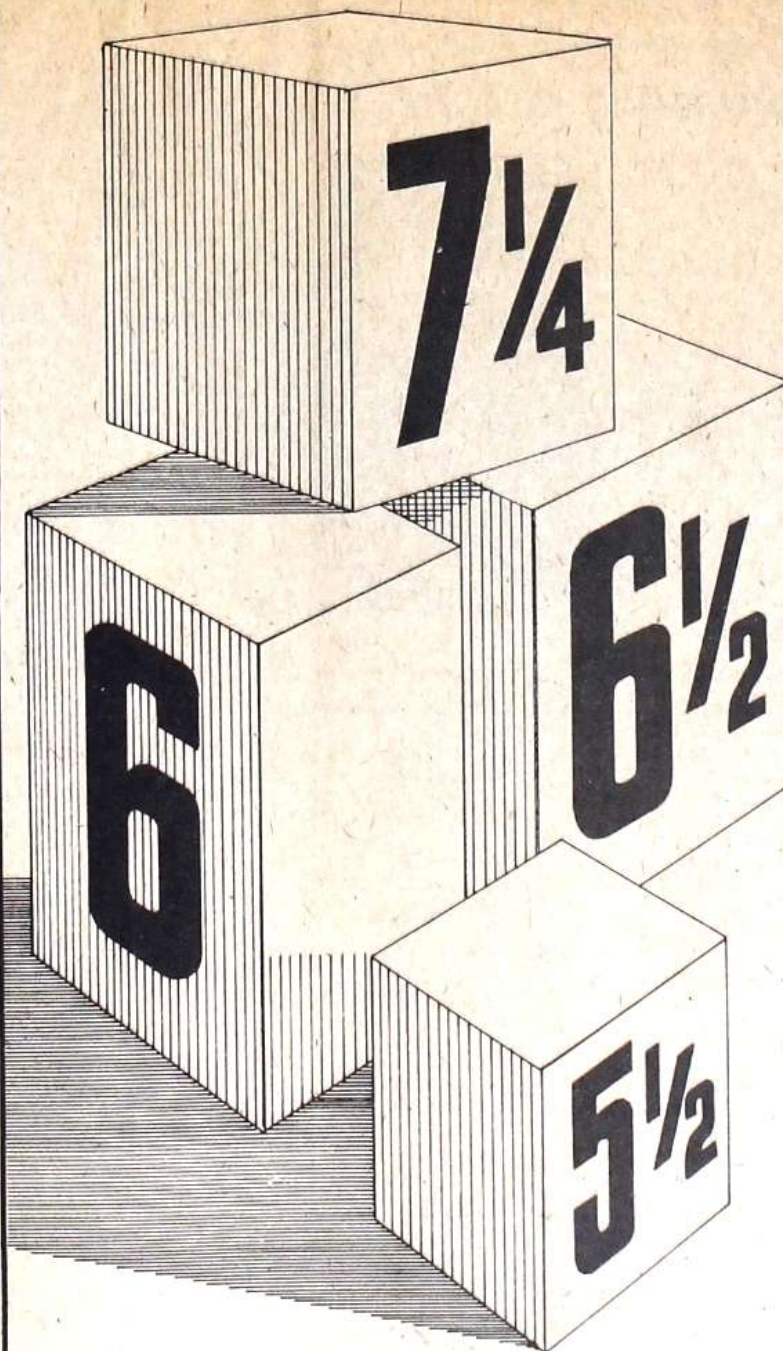

The following Sunday, the Christian flag was draped for the first time in the chancel of the Brighton Chapel. It was made by Mr. Annin, a flag manufacturer who did much to secure it's adoption by churches. It's use spread rapidly throughout the U.S. and today is seen throughout the world. Watch for next week's column which will relate how the pledge of allegiance to the Christian flag originated.

Romulus girl has busy life

Susanna's Polish heritage being enriched by study of traditional folk dance techniques

By LEE SMITH

It was in 1964 that Susanna Mazlarski of Romulus became intrigued with traditional Polish dancing and for the past 10 years she has literally danced her weeks away. Susanna was PROUD OF HER HERITAGE — Traditional Polish dancing has become a way of life with 17-year old Susanna Mazlarski of Romulus. As a member of the Polish Women's Alliance of Detroit, Council 3-A, she is one of an eight-girl troop which specializes in performing Polish folk dances for various organizations and programs. A senior at Romulus High School, the petite Miss Mazlarski is also active in her school's extra-curricular activities as well as taking part in her community's programs. She is currently working with retarded children as part of Project Head Start in Romulus.

Shower is tagged 'miscellaneous'

Linda Krystyniak, who will be an August bride, was the honored guest recently at a miscellaneous shower given by her four sisters, Sandra Wallman of Ypsilanti; Kathy Randall of Belleville and Chris and Theresa, at home; and her future sister-in-law, Bonnie McDaniels of Belleville.

The V.F.W. Hall on Bemis Road was reserved for the afternoon party which was attended by some 60 relatives and friends including the honoree's God-mother, Mrs. John Golic of Standish, and her grandmother, Mrs. Paul DuBois, who came from Montpelier, O. for the occasion.

Card bingo was followed by a special game in which guests were to estimate the age of the bride-elect in 12 pictures taken at various years in her life. Mrs. Jack Fensch took home the door prize for having the lucky little lapel pin bearing the names "Linda and Dave."

Following a full-course dinner, served amid blue and white table appointments, the bride-elect opened the many pots, pans, dishes and appliances which will help fill the shelves of her new home. Carol Zuppa of Allen Park, who's to be maid of honor, Bonnie McDaniels and Theresa Krystyniak assisted with the ribbons and wrappings.

Linda, who has set August 10 for her marriage to Dave Spellich, was on the staff at Belleville High School this past term teaching commercial subjects. The ceremony will be held at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

Washington guests entertained

Jim and Pat Shephard of Sumpter Road, Belleville, had recent guests from Vancouver, Wash. — Daryle, Chris, Tina and Mari Pat Rustvold — who spent 10 days in the area.

Daryle, who was best man at the Shephard's wedding four years ago, got to introduce his wife and children to 23 of the Shephard's friends and relatives at a barbecued ham dinner in their honor. Art and Verdys Shephard; Grove Shephard (Art's cousin from Florida); Brian Shephard and his date, Nancy Ostrowski; and Jennie Sliwa were on hand to get reacquainted with Daryle and welcome his family.

Still others at the get-together were Stan and Joyce Sliwa and son, Mike; Tina and Cindy Sliwa and their dates; Fay and Mary Ferguson and their houseguest, Mrs. Myrtle Ferguson from Kansas City, Mo.; Terry Ferguson and Leslie, Shawn and Shari Ferguson.

Also planned for the Rustvold's enjoyment were a visit to Greenfield Village and a trip northward to Grayling (where they took in the Fred Bear Museum and Hartwick Pines State Park), Lewistown, St. Ignace and the Mackinac Bridge.

Sumpter sends 3 Sr. Citizens to D.C.

Three Gold Card Club members of Sumpter attended the National Council of Senior Citizens Convention in Washington D.C. recently. Club president, The Rev. C.C. Davis; secretary, Florence Turner, and director, Clara Copening represented their club at the gathering.

Other recent activities for the group included a meeting held in Lansing when Rev. Davis was appointed with 50 with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mazlarski of 37770 Wick Rd., Romulus, when she viewed the performance of the Polish Women's Alliance dancers in Detroit.

Since she was already studying ballet and modern jazz with Evelyn's School of Dance in Wayne, she decided to enrich her Polish background by learning the dance techniques and attitudes of her forefathers' native land.

A member of Council 3-A of the Polish Women's Alliance (PWA) of Detroit, Susanna recently took part in the Seventh National Youth Conference of PWA at Orchard Lake. Her eight-girl dance troop was among the 14 groups from throughout the United States which vied for honors in the Polish folk dance competition.

THE CONTEST afforded an opportunity for the display of dancing talent of the various groups with the added incentive of awards for the best. It was also a chance to display Polish folk dance and costumes to the public and to show that folk dancing could be fun as well as educational.

It also pointed out to the public that youth is aware of tradition and that dancing is a part of our cultural heritage and demonstrated to the public a pride in Polish culture.

Susanna and her troop were awarded a second place for their interpretation of the "Krakowiak" — a dance of peasant people which is happy, wild and joyous with constant movement. The girls' second number was the "Tohoyla" — a dance which celebrates a wedding.

Because of their second place honor, the troop will be able to visit Warsaw and Crakow, Poland in 1975 to further study authentic dance techniques. Susanna is hoping to look up her many aunts, uncles and cousins during her stay.

SUMMER FINALE — That favorite of Americans, ice cream, is the star of this easy-to-make dessert, "Crispy Ice Cream Pie." The crust and topping feature fruity pebbles cereal which adds just the right amount of crunchiness to contrast with the ice cream. A great way to give a party personality to a simple dessert.

For your recipe file

Ice cream pie -- a cooling finale

Ice cream is one of the most popular of desserts and a year-round favorite with almost everyone. Fortunately for ice cream lovers, we've come a long way since Dolly Madison served "frozen pudding" at a formal White House dinner over 150 years ago. Soon afterwards the popularity of ice cream spread throughout the land. Sundaes, sodas, and cones became part of the American scene.

In recent years pies have been added to the ice cream repertoire. They're a grand way to make a special dessert of ice cream and yet are easy to prepare. Especially easy is "Crispy Ice Cream Pie" which features cereal as crust and topping. Vanilla ice cream has a great affinity for fruity pebbles cereal and coffee ice cream goes especially well with cocoa pebbles cereal. The result is a tasty crunchy-smooth treat.

Another delectable use of this crisp rice cereal is in an out-of-hand snack where it's combined with peanuts (or other nuts) and raisins for a tasty snack time munch.

Crispy Ice Cream Pie

2 cups crisp rice cereal, cocoa or fruity flavor
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine cereal and butter; toss lightly to coat. Set aside ½ cup. Press remaining cereal evenly into a well-buttered 8-inch pie pan. Chill about 1 hour. Fill with ice cream. Sprinkle with reserved cereal. Freeze. For ease in serving, dip pie pan just to rim in warm water for a few seconds; then cut and serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

The Van Buren Garden Club's June 25 meeting highlighted the installation of new officers for the 1974-75 club year. Mrs. Joseph Horste was named president with Mrs. V. Kulzar, vice-president and Mrs. Malik, secretary.

Mrs. Clifford C. Smith, installing officer, conducted the ceremony in the lovely garden of Mrs. Harold Clayton of Bedell Street, Belleville. The incoming treasurer, Mrs. C. Deering, (who was absent) was represented by Mrs. Edward Kapelanski.

Members enjoyed a dessert luncheon while discussing tentative plans for the ensuing year. Mrs. H. Essex of Willis presided at the tea table.

Ethel Ward, former teacher, dies in Midland

A former teacher and resident of Henry Street, Belleville, Mrs. John (Ethel) Ward, died June 29 in Midland, Mich. Mrs. Ward taught school in New Boston for many years before retiring and moving to Midland about six years ago.

Funeral services and burial took place in Saginaw.

Among the items discussed was the club's custom of planting a "living memorial" for each outgoing president. Since all members may not have a turn as club leader, it was decided that those who had been in the club since its early beginnings should also be honored. A final decision as to how this will be carried out is to be made at a later date. The picnic planned for July was cancelled. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Kapelanski on Haggerty Road, Belleville, the last Tuesday of September. At that time the club will be shown traditional and contemporary arranging of roses by two guests who specialize in the art.

Expert's mail advice can help vacationers

Tips to help vacationers enjoy trouble-free mailing of letters and post cards while on their holiday were offered today by Postmaster John J. Shiven of Garden City, but they apply to all communities.

"Mail as early as possible in the day, preferably in the morning," he said. "Avoid mailing on weekends when many post offices are closed, and try to deposit cards in mailboxes that indicate an early pickup."

He also suggested:

—Buy enough stamps before leaving home to prevent running out far away from the nearest post office. Keep in mind that stamps are more expensive when purchased from commercial vending machines.

—ALWAYS USE sufficient postage. For first-class cards, use an 8-cent stamp if the post card is not larger than the standard 4½ x 6 in. size. For "jumbo" cards, 10-cent stamps are required. For airmail, use an 11-cent stamp on standard post cards and 13-cent for "jumbo" cards. As a general rule, use airmail stamps only when the mailing distance is 600 miles or more.

—Remember to use ZIP Codes. Many times cards are addressed hurriedly while riding in cars, trains or planes. Legible ZIP Codes will help speed mail to its proper destination.

Keep this trick in mind — type the addresses of friends and relatives on self-adhesive labels before you leave home. It is surprising how much time this saves on the road and how

Three babies added to local population

The Belleville community was increased by three last week as a trio of births took place at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti. Two girls and a boy were added to the population rolls for mid-June.

Mr. and Mrs. David L. Bow of 221 Henry St., Belleville, welcomed a seven-pound daughter whom they named Kimberley Denise. She made her debut June 13.

It was a girl, too, for Mr. and Mrs. Gary R. Greiser of 4540 Morton Taylor Rd., Belleville. Arriving June 14, the little miss weighed in at 7 lbs.-8 oz. and was named Angela Gail.

Marlan Robert Jr. was the title given the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlan R. Fedraw of 5033 Willis Rd., Belleville, who was born June 15. His weight was recorded at 9 lbs.-9 oz.

much neater those cards will look.

—Don't forget about your personal mail back home.

—Remember to ask a friend or neighbor to empty your mailbox daily and to hold the mail until you return. An overstuffed box in your absence is an open invitation for thieves to enter your temporarily unoccupied home.

HOWEVER, if you prefer, you can fill out a form available from the post office and request that your mail be held for any period up to 30 days.

Remodeling offers out from home buying blues

Caught between the need for a larger home and fluctuating interest rates on loans, many Western Wayne County residents are overcoming their problems through remodeling.

Whether by a weekend handyman or building contractor, homeowners will find added space in areas that once were cluttered storage areas for discarded items.

An added touch here and an unused attic can become that much needed bedrooms. A dash of paneling and tile and some creative decorating and a basement can serve as that so desirable family room.

A vacant porch easily can be converted into an additional room at a considerable savings.

WITH OVERALL redecorating, homeowners not only will find they have more space, but have a "new" home.

Nationwide the home improvement market is a $25 billion business and with the simplification of the work, weekend handymen and do-it-yourselfers are finding that home remodeling doesn't require trade school training. The average homeowner can tackle a home improvement job without a fear today.

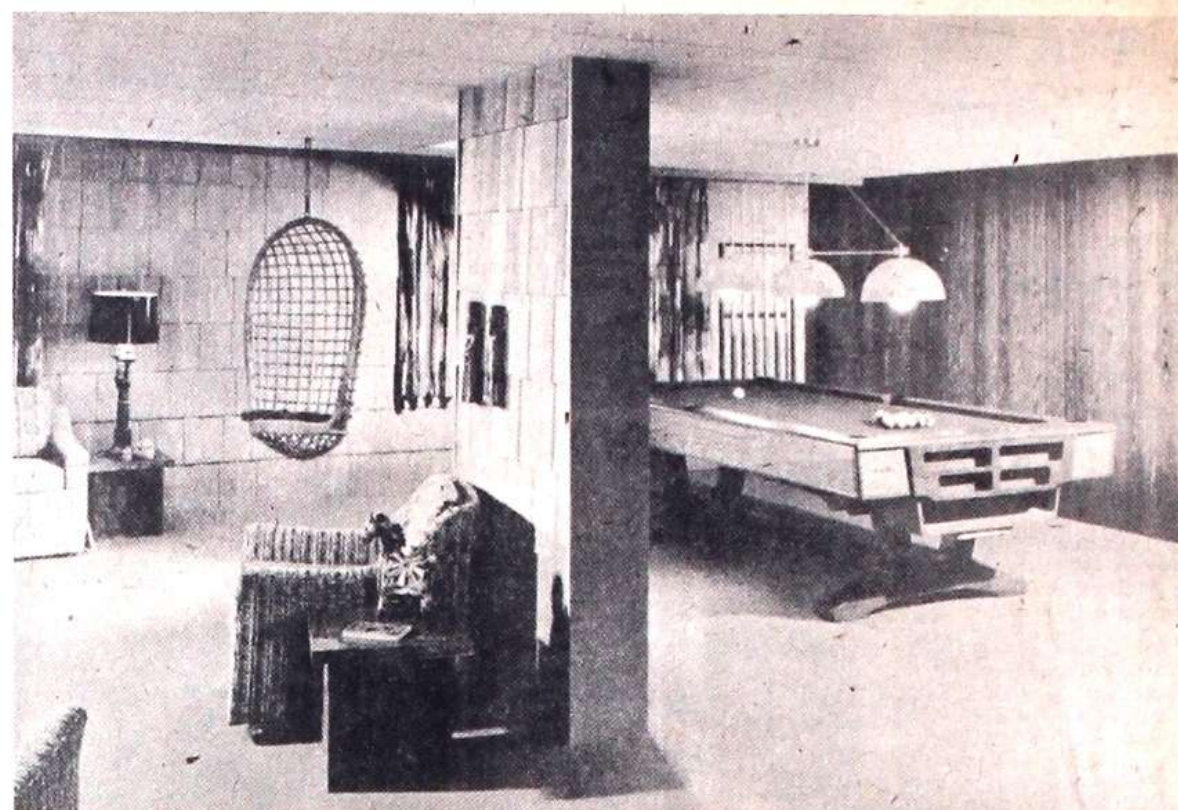

Floor tiles and carpet tiles can be pressed in place without messy glues with the self-stick innovation. New ceiling systems are a cinch to install, too.

SIMULATED BRICK walls can live up a drab kitchen with a few taps on some nails, and a dash of caulk can give the man-made version of bricks a rustic look.

Experts in the home improvement field point to the fact that a large inventory of older housing offers any homeowner a challenge in the remodeling field.

With less than 12 per cent of all housing in the country under 5 years of age, it is obvious why many homes will undergo a facelifting this year.

Indications are that this year will be one of the boom years in home improvements.

NEW IMAGE — A large percentage of home remodeling projects are confined to the basement, which can have style and good looks while being the family recreation center. With the accent on playful, the functional informality of this basement is keynoted by the use of exterior hardwood siding, played against an oak-grain hardwood board panel. The end result is fun.

AMERICANA TOUCH—A Sheraton sideboard and breakfast table of mahogany feature the inlaid effect of rosewood and yew wood in a return to the Americana look in home furnishings. Add crewel-work upholstered chairs and touch of porcelain and the effect is complete. Hardwood floors help to finish off the look.

Native hardwoods provide updated Americana trend

The most important trend in furniture today can be summed up in one word - Americana. It's "the Spirit of '76," the aura of the bicentennial of the country. But it's far from being a one-style-only trend.

America is an amalgam of international influences, brewed together with a home-grown flavor all its own. And the group of furniture styles that have come to be considered Americana is no exception.

Showing up in time for the bicentennial are styles that have come down from our forefathers. There are new reproductions of the styles that were popular when the country was just getting started. They range from federal and colonial to genuine antiques, country and traditional styles.

FOR A 20TH Century Americana look steeped in tradition, look to the 18th Century English styles. Popular on this side of the Atlantic then were the Chippendale, Hepplewhite and Sheraton fashions.

For the ornate Chippendale style, look for a claw-and-ball feet on cabriole legs, and look for carved chairs with an open back designed in the Chinese taste, characterized by its pagoda-like ornament and fretwork or lattice work.

Chippendale also adapted a graceful arm chair with open padded arms, incurvate arm supports and a broad seat, reminiscent of French styling.

The more simple dignity of Hepplewhite style will feature a straight, tapering leg, ending in a spade foot. Or the leg may be cylindrical and ringcolored.

ORIGINAL Hepplewhite drawing rooms often featured decorative pier tables made of satinwood, with either inlaid design or a painted floral banding.

Sheraton styling is a happy blending of the two earlier styles, with graceful curvatures and handsome styling. For an Americana dining room of Sheraton flavor, you can choose a graceful Sheraton sideboard with a swell-front central section and gently curved side-drawers.

To go with it, select an oblong breakfast table, sized for the not-large dining room. For the upholstered dining room chairs, try a crewel-work pattern on mahogany frames.

BOTH THE buffet and table are veneered in mahogany, banded with rosewood inlay, and trimmed of mellow yew wood. Their basic structure is of mahogany solids.

The use of hardwoods in a home alone or together can add to the Americana look.

Just as the styles can blend gracefully, use Hepplewhite chairs with a Chippendale table, or place a Chippendale mirror over a Sheraton buffet, the authentic American hardwoods can be used together.

In fact, to add interest and variety, many accent or complementary pieces are constructed of other hardwoods and used with the mahogany set. Or whole suites of furniture may be of these other cabinetwoods.

CHERRY, for example, is a native American hardwood popular in furniture. Cherry is very strong, and has the deep rich coloring and lustre people want in their homes.

Maple, also known for its strength, gives these 18th Century reproductions a more country look because of its warm mellow tones. And walnut, of course, is popular for every style of furniture, and adapts well to these.

Sometimes, the hardwoods are mixed on a single piece of furniture. You may find a mahogany secretary banded in mahogany, for example. The wide range of hardwood's coloring make them ideal in inlay work, for decorating and fine highlighting.

Reclaimed porch adds to home's living space

Remember when houses had porches? Remember when you could afford a house with or without a porch?

If you're an average homeowner, pinched for space, but unable to move to larger quarters because of inflated costs, that outdated porch on your present house could be the answer.

Consider this: because they already have the basic structural elements of roof, floor and one wall, porches are relatively easy and economical to enclose. Because many porches are large, enclosing them can provide a substantial amount of new living space.

DEPENDENT ON your handyman skills, you may be able to undertake some of the work yourself. Plan the project carefully; and, if you need professional help, it's worth the expense to get it.

If the porch has a pitched floor for rain run-off, it may need new joists over the old floor and shimming to make the new floor level.

Adequate insulation will be needed in sidewalls, ceiling and under the floor to keep the new room comfortable year-round. R-30 insulation generally is recommended for the ceiling and R-14 for walls. Don't skimp on proper insulation. It can reduce your fuel requirements and save money in the long run.

Figure sufficient wiring to support the new room load, as well as enough conveniently-located wall outlets. Wiring should be completed before finish walls go up.

INSTALL VINYL veneer wall paneling for interior walls. The paneling is sturdy, requires little maintenance and is available in a variety of wood grain designs. It is also economical. Installation of wall panels usually can be accomplished by a do-it-yourselfer following manufacturer's directions, thus saving the cost of professional labor.

It may be possible to extend your present heating system to the porch, if pipe and duct locations and furnace capacity permit.

Other possibilities are gas or electric space heaters, portable or permanent electric baseboard heaters, or a heat pump that heats in winter and cools in summer.

Unused attic has a roomy potential

Who says you can't transform an attic into a penthouse suite.

"Just about any attic can be converted into attractive, modern living quarters through use of design features that give homes their appeal of openness and light," home improvement director for a manufacturer of paneling.

She said an attic can be made to look more spacious, than it actually is by "borrowing" space. Expanses of window walls borrow space from the outdoors, while see-through room dividers instead of full-height partitions allow one interior area to borrow from another.

Wall and ceiling decoration also play a role in making the converted attic look big, roomy and light. Expanses of clear, light colors seem to enlarge a room's dimensions.

"If pattern is desired, a light grained paneling is especially suitable for a spacious effect," she said.

A quick and easy way to decorate an attic appropriately and distinctively is to cover the walls with prefinished planks. Available with tongue-and-grooved edges for easy installation, the planks are durable and versatile. They can be cleaned with a damp cloth.

As an extra bonus, your attic suite will assure you more privacy and quiet than you'd get with a first floor room.

Remodel closets as nooks

Decorating periodicals are crammed with ideas for remodeling older homes, with their charming nooks and crannies, but what about the modern no-nook house?

Add intrigue to the overall shape of any room by using wall paneling creatively. An external closet integral with a paneled wall and extending into the room, creates an L-shaped nook for bed, desk or dining furniture.

Decorate the wall-closet with tasteful woodgrained paneling, or opt for the ultra-contemporary look with bold colors or striking black and white stripes. Woodgrain reproductions, solid colors and patterns are available, featuring tongue-and-grooved edges for easy installation.

Blinds have new slant on decorating windows

In these energy-conscious days of fuel shortages and air-conditioning "brown outs," homeowners are returning more and more to an ancient solution to the problem of window coverings — slatted blinds.

man's psychological well-being, but they're extremely inefficient. They let heat in in summer, and they let it out in winter.

Aside from considerations of beauty and ease of maintenance, the search has been for a window covering that will minimize the "thermal barrier."

The most efficient device developed to date? Slatted blinds.

WITH MODERN engineering and recent advances in reflective finishes, blinds can make a difference of 10 to 20 degrees over a window that is unprotected or one covered with drapes or a non-reflective shade.

In winter, modern blinds bounce heat back into the room from which it normally would escape through the glass.

Talk of slatted window blinds brings up dingy visions of the 1930s and the old-fashioned, fat louvers called "Venetian." Forty years of improvements in technology and chemistry by manufacturers have evolved new designs and finishes that are the talk of the home fashions industry.

Increasingly, decorators and designers are specifying the revolutionary 25mm (less than one-inch wide) blinds not only for their efficiency, but because of the wide range of colors, finishes and the effects which can be obtained.

UNLIKE OUTDATED draperies and window shades, the sleek-slatted blinds provide a crisp, modern look which enhances the clean lines of contemporary architecture and offers a spectrum of dozens of colors ranging from warm browns and umbers through the rainbow to low-gloss, brushed and polished aluminum, the most reflective surfaces for maximum heat control.

But the most telling argument in favor of the new slat-slats is cost efficiency. According to a recent evaluation by an independent research laboratory, the average installation cost per window of horizontal blinds is less than half of good draperies.

Not only that, replacement and maintenance costs are way down, too. Within 8 to 10 years, 86 per cent of most drapes have been replaced, while more than half of the blinds last longer than 10 years, many for a lifetime.

Planning a change in window treatments? Look first at the new narrow blinds. You can't beat them for beauty, variety, efficiency and low cost.

Exposed beam graces ceiling

Flat ceilings are regaining favor to save heat, but exposed wood beams and decking can be as handsome as in sloped designs.

COMFORT PLUS BEAUTY — A modern, tapeless blind can provide a new look to any window while offering easy-to-clean handling. Some shades can provide an added plus by not only cooling homes in the summer, but also acting as an energy saver in the winter.

Glass wall adds airy effect to room

Got the living room "blahs?" Is a bulky old radiator cramping your style? Take a tip from similarly afflicted homeowners who solved the problem of a ho-hum living room by staging a "breakout."

They removed the old window sash and frames, the old radiator and part of the wall and installed a gliding patio door that literally opens up the house to an attractive backyard.

The result of the remodeling is a large glass area that affords plenty of sunshine and light for both people and plants. The gliding door puts the terrace and garden just a step away.

In the past, installation of a gliding door was considered a job only for professionals or the most experienced do-it-yourselfers.

However, a leading manufacturer of windows and gliding doors, says the job is within the capability of the average home handyman, although he may need some help in physically handling the doors because of their size and weight.

After removal of the radiator or windows from the home, the supply pipe must be capped and the portion of the wall behind the radiator, including the center support stud, removed. An adequate header should be installed across the top and the gliding door panels fitted. The exterior siding should be replaced and caulking applied around the frame.

Indoors, a Colonial casing can be applied around the interior of the gliding door. For privacy, a pulldown woven screen also can be installed behind a valance. Electric baseboard heating on an adjacent wall replaces the radiator.

The gliding door has double-glazed safety insulating glass, assuring year-round comfort and heating economy. The tempered safety glass protects against possible injury in the event the glass is broken.

Redwood has decor versatility

Planning to panel a room, or thinking about adding a room?

Consider redwood paneling as a highly creative alternative to ordinary building materials.

Redwood is so versatile that virtually any effect is possible. You can achieve many different looks: formal or informal, urban or rustic, traditional or contemporary. Once you decide upon the style you want, your local lumber yard or home center is an ideal place to go for technical advice.

You can choose the grade of redwood and the kind of grain and surface you want.

You also can pick the paneling pattern and the type finish best suited to your individual needs. One plus you'll discover later is that redwood requires very little maintenance.

As with all quality interior furnishings, high demand can create temporary shortages. There may be a waiting period in some areas, so it's best to plan early.

Pedestrian safety bill awaits Senate decision

The State House of Representatives has passed a $1 million safety program, aimed at pedestrian safety, and sent the measure to the Senate for its approval, according to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District).

The representative said funds provided by the bill would be used to provide such safety devices as pedestrian overpasses, particularly in areas of heavy traffic and school children.

"The lack of sufficient safety facilities is a serious problem, facing both state and local governments," he said.

"There is a strong argument that present provisions for planning and funding such pedestrian safety projects are haphazard and insufficient, but the main problem is lack of funds."

The bill has passed the House with an initial appropriation of $1 million to be taken from the motor vehicle highway fund. The program would be administered through the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Rules of the program would be developed by the highway department in conjunction with the State Department of Education.

If passed, the funds could be used to finance up to 75 per cent of the cost of a pedestrian safety facility. However, no more than 44.5 per cent of the available money in the fund could be used to finance state projects in any 5-year period.

According to Mahalak, opponents to the bill have argued that a dwindling amount of incoming gas tax revenues have reduced the vehicle fund and no new projects should be financed through it.

"School districts are not eligible to receive money from the motor vehicle highway fund and they cannot afford to finance such projects themselves," Mahalak said. "The bill would allow school districts to receive funding to protect children walking to school."

Cancer screening plan to aid medically indigent

Wayne along with Oakland and Macomb counties have been selected as recipients of a subcontract for a 3-year cancer screening program in high risk population areas.

The program, set up to detect cervical cancer in women, is being funded by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

The first year goal of the program is to reach at least 25,000 women residing in medically under-served or medically indigent areas of the three counties, providing free Pap tests.

According to the head of the Michigan Cancer Foundation, Dr. Michael J. Brennan, the screening will be handled by qualified personnel with the laboratory work to be handled at the foundation's cancer center headquarters in Detroit.

Women who have positive tests will be referred to physicians, designated by themselves, or to out-patient facilities at community hospitals and participating local health centers.

A positive test would indicate the presence of either pre-cancerous cells or cancer. Early treatment "can save lives and help reduce the cervical cancer death rate," Dr. Brennan said.

Funds for the subcontract are being provided by the National Cancer Institute, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. First year funding will be about $320,000.

The screening program will be administered by the Michigan Cancer Foundation and may begin as early as August.

County to make available funding for employment and summer camp

Nearly $3.4 million in federal job funds, some $2 million more than previously expected, will be available in suburban Wayne County, according to the chairman of the County Board of Commissioners Robert E. FitzPatrick.

FitzPatrick said the county also received a $37,181 federal grant which will be used to send 700 children of poor suburban families to summer camp for a week.

The U.S. Department of Labor has notified the county that it is in line for $3,396,614 under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). The county originally expected $1,326,400.

THE FUNDS will support a summer youth employment program and a year-long adult public service job program in the county and local governments.

FitzPatrick said the adult employment program is in line for $2,565,500, as opposed to an original figure of $664,400. Most of the money will be allocated to local communities by the county, he added.

The grant is expected to provide a year of full-time employment for approximately 250 unemployed and under-employed persons as compared with an earlier figure of 65.

Forty of the 43 cities and townships in Wayne County potentially are eligible for funds, depending on the extent of unemployment and poverty in each, FitzPatrick said.

DETROIT, DEARBORN and Livonia are excluded because cities with more than 100,000 residents are receiving direct CETA grants.

Under a CETA option, the three localities in the 50,000-100,000 population range, Lincoln Park, Redford and Taylor, will get funds through the county, but will administer their own programs.

Allocations for those three localities were set by the labor department. Lincoln Park is to receive $150,000; Redford, $196,000; and Taylor, $216,900.

The summer job program, designed for high school students, ages 14 to 21, will receive $831,114 instead of a previously-reported $662,200. The number of participants will be increased from 1,825 to 2,025. They will work 30 hours per week at $2 per hour.

THE SUMMER program runs through Aug. 9. It is administered in 21 local school districts by the Neighborhood Youth Corps program of the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Applicants must qualify under federal family income guidelines. Students residing outside the 21 districts also may qualify.

THE CETA program was designed to provide federal public employment funds to areas with jobless rates of at least 6.5 percent over a 90-day period.

FitzPatrick said the higher allocations for Wayne County resulted from an unemployment increase in the county and the fact that Congress appropriated more money for the CETA than requested by the administration.

"The labor department based its original estimates on 1973 unemployment figures," FitzPatrick said. "Wayne County's share increased when tentative allocations were recalculated on the basis of 1974 figures."

FITZPATRICK added that it will take about two weeks to determine all eligible communities and the amounts of their allocations.

The formula will be based on a community's jobless rate, size of work force and number of disadvantaged residents, he said.

Children, ages 9 to 13, from disadvantaged families will be eligible for the summer camp program and will be recruited through the Wayne County Department of Social Services and other agencies which have contact with poor families, FitzPatrick added.

Huron Township eyes county's waste plan

By DALE GOWING
Roman Staff

Huron Township is likely to join with Wayne County in a solid waste disposal program involving five massive incinerators scattered throughout the county. The indication is that the township will participate in the program, since Supervisor George W. Moore's proposal of starting a sanitary landfill in the township was defeated by the Huron Township Board of Appeals. "I imagine the township probably will go with the county now," Moore said.

THE COUNTY has been under pressure from the state to file a 10-year plan for solid waste disposal, and is waiting for its member municipalities to indicate if they plan to join in a massive system with the county, or provide their own disposal methods.

The county is eyeing an incinerator system in which member communities would be billed according to their use of it.

Moore, however, insisted that Huron's own landfill would save thousands of tax dollars.

"The township could save more than $25,000 on a landfill as opposed to a county disposal program," he said. "The landfill would cost about $14,000 while the county system would cost us about $40,000. The township might even end up paying $80,000 to $90,000 within 18 months."

IDEALLY, THE county system is the best, Moore admitted.

"If every community in the county joined with the county, it would cost each person only about $18, but all the municipalities aren't likely to join, so the price could go as high as $25."

Moore's proposal was not just for a landfill, but for an "industrial development." Planned for the southwest corner of South Huron River Drive and Rust, the landfill was included in specifications for an industrial park also proposed for 78 acres located there.

Two Allen Park developers had agreed to provide free solid-waste disposal for the township's refuse service, if the landfill was approved, Moore said.

HE ADDED that the proposal was killed because the appeals board "basically didn't want an industrial development there."

However, board members said a major reason for the proposal's defeat was because the landfill would have had a "life" of five years and would not meet the state's requirement for a 10-year disposal plan.

Huron now pays $30,000 per year for refuse collection and disposal by the Municipal Disposal Service in Dearborn. However, the contract expires in October. Moore said the company has asked for a new $39,000 contract for next year.

Schools to share new state funds

State and federal funds in sums of more than $11.25 million, will be received in the form of aid to 11 school districts in the 13th Michigan Senatorial District this month.

"The bulk of that aid—$10,792,500—will come in the form of state school aid," an area legislator said.

Of that amount, Van Buren Public Schools will receive $430,470; Romulus Community Schools will receive $419,523; and Huron School District, $363,055.

Federal aid is divided into three categories, including Title I funds for educational programs geared toward children from economically-deprived homes and Title III for innovative educational programs developed by local school district. Also included is special funding for vocational education.

Under Title I, Van Buren will receive $44,143; Huron

Schools, $7,843; and Romulus, $951.

Title III and Vocational Education funds will be shared by other districts in Western Wayne County.

Ford Motor Co. announced it would raise the retail prices on its automobiles due to increased cost of steel.

Winless PNA Lodge discovered the hard way why Atchinson Ford is in the Belleville Babe Ruth League's driver's seat.

With Paul Krystiniak twirling a one-hitter, Atchinson trimmed PNA 3-1 for its ninth win in 12 starts. The victory kept the winner a half-game ahead of Robert's Brothers (8-

3) who have played one less game than the pacesetters. Krystiniak's bid for a no-hitter was spoiled by Tony Alison was swatted a single in the early stages of the game. However, the Ford pitcher got 12 strikeouts and walked three.

TOM MONTGOMERY was charged with the loss. He gave up eight hits, two each to Don Walls and Stan Johnson.

Don Kettlehut went the distance for Atchinson in downing Ed's Union 76 by a score of 6-2. Kettlehut was in control all the way as he notched 13 whiffs and walked three for the win. Dave Lundell, who served up four hits, took the loss. He got seven strikeouts and walked three.

Richard Dapsi and Martines Tompkins supplied the hitting power and Stan Price the pitching as Robert Brothers stayed close on Atchinson's heels.

Robert's riddled Hink Enterprise 10-5 as Price threw a four-hitter.

Tompkins blasted a pair of triples and Dapsi singled twice off of a pair of Hink pitchers, Larry Pingston and Jerry Cole.

that is being protested. Hink's got singles from Mark Shelp and Lee Mullins while Roy Rutherford gave up one hit for the win.

Kevin Barnes went the distance, struck out eight and walked one to take the loss.

Ed's Union 76 made good use of nine hits to bury Hink's Enterprise 6-1. Paul Lauth tossed a three-hitter, chalked up nine strikeouts and walked four for the win.

Loser Mike Anglium gave up nine hits, two each to Paul Lauth and Dave Laundell. Terry Caves got two of the losers three hits.

PNA GOT the hits but not at the right time as Walter Hink shut out their rivals 9-0. Mike Smithers gave up six hits, one less than loser John Teasdale, in earning the win.

Smithers also fanned five and walked one. Teasdale got eight on strikeouts and gave up a total of six walks.

Rutherford had an excellent day at the plate as he drilled three hits while PNA's Otto Bailey accounted for a pair of singles.

IN A cliffhanger, Ed's Union 76 hung on to drop Walter Hink into the loss column, 6-5. Union's Dan Peterson went the distance and was tagged for six hits. He struck out six and walked four. Mark Shelp took the loss, giving up a total of 10 hits. He fanned four and walked three.

Ed's got two hits apiece from Jeff Smith, Jim McCarty and Randy Jimenez while Smithers was Walter Hink's top man with two safeties.

Campbell Group imposed the "mercy rule" in their 13-0 triumph over Hink Enterprise. (The rule allows a game to be terminated after one team has compiled a 10 or more run advantage.)

Bob Fleming picked up the win, pitching a two-hitter while whiffing seven and walking three. Bruce Root was slapped with the loss.

Fleming and Dale Adkins belted home runs while Lance McArthur also picked up two hits for Campbell's. In earlier games, Larry Pingston doubled and scored on Brian Napier's single to break a 1-all Halfway through the season the champs have amassed a perfect record and lead challenger, PLAV, by two full games.

The champs played the role last week as they polished off Rogall's Lounge 20-5, then came back to beat Belleville's JC's 15-2 for their 10th con-

Though Blue Boar and PLAV have bolted from the field, the battle continued for the No. 4 spot as Air Cargo, Belleville Moose and the Ducks are still in contention for the final playoff spot.

Atchinson Ford leads

Pingston twirled a one-hitter, struck out 11 and walked nine.

Lance McArthur, who gave up five hits, was the losing pitcher.

Shelp's double and single helped Walter Hink's to an 8-6 victory over Roberts' Brothers. Ray Rutherford struck out four and walked one, while Mark Stalten got four strikeouts and walked four in taking the loss.

PAUL LAUTH'S one-hit pitching performance tripped up PNA 1-0 as he amassed nine strikeouts and walked one. Losing pitcher Tom Montgomery delivered six hits, walked four and fanned five in taking the loss.

Lauth also helped his own cause along with two singles. Rebekah Lodge bured Hink's Enterprise 20-6 as the losers helped in their demise by committing nine errors.

Stan Price, who pitched a four-hitter, struck out seven, was the winning pitcher.

Stan King, Dan Pavelka and Kevin Barnes each had three hits while Charles Beavers had an excellent night at the plate, collecting five hits.

Pavelka, Beavers, Barnes and Doug Bulk each belted two hits to lead Rebekah to a 8-5 victory over PNA Lodge. John Teasdale, who struck out 10 and walked nine, was the losing pitcher, while Beavers, who fanned seven and walked seven, collected the win.

Ed Union 76 proved to be no match for the Campbell Group which pulled out a 13-4 triumph. Bob Fleming, with six strike outs, was the winning pitcher, while Dave Lyndle was the loser.

Charlie Childers got the only home run in the game.

Dale Adkins, who blasted three hits, Fleming and Larry Scott, with two apiece led Campbell past Walter Hink 11-6.

ADKINS worked the first 3 1/2 innings before giving way to Mark Cornet. Mike Smithers was the losing pitcher.

Hink's put to good use two hits each by Mike and Pat Angulum and Teasdale to beat back PNA Lodge 8-2 earlier in the week.

Stan Price was in control all the way as he whiffed 12 and walked two. Jeff Bramble was the loser. He notched 10 strikeouts and walked seven and also gave up a homerun to Bruce Root.

Jim Vincent, Beavers, Barnes and Smith each drilled two hits to speak Rebekah Lodge to a 6-3 victory over Ed's Union. Bernie Collins, who struck out eight, was the winning pitcher, while Jeff Smith, who gave up nine hits, and struck out 14, was the loser.

Gleming and Beavers each got two hits as Campbell trampled Rebekah Lodge, 9-2. Fleming also was the winning pitcher while Collins took the loss.

JEFF LIEDEL

Belleville tanker also top scholar

Topped by an all-time high of 16 straight-A averages, varsity athletes at Bowling Green State University recorded a record-breaking performance in the classroom for the spring term.

And among the 123 athletes who will be honored as "Scholar-Athletes" for achieving a B average (3.00 in a 4.00 scale) or better in the classroom is former Belleville High and All-Area swimmer, Jeff Liedel.

Liedel, a freshman, was one of eight Bowling Green swimmers who were given special recognition for their athletic-scholastic achievements.

Innisbrook: paradise for area sportsmen looking for fun

A Belleville family of six checked into the Innisbrook Resort and Golf Club here recently with five sets of golf clubs, six fishing poles, four tennis rackets, two rubber rafts, a basketball and a frisbee.

To reservation clerks at the front desk, the family looked like a walking sporting goods store.

Gardens, jai alai, dog racing, and a host of other attractions that have made Florida famous."

Built by Golf Hosts International, Innisbrook had been referred to as "The Fifth-First State" because of its entirely different physical characteristics from those found in the rest of Florida. Elevations on-site range up to 80-foot (no, that means natural elevation, not highrises), pine trees take the place of palm trees and there is plenty of open space. "No one will ever feel crowded at Innisbrook," Bearce notes, adding that the luxury site rental concept has proven extremely attractive to families and groups.

TO SATISFY the desire of golfers this summer, Innisbrook is offering a deluxe golf week package of six nights and seven days starting as low as $197 per person based on double occupancy in a "club suite." Included in the plan are six breakfasts and dinner, 18-holes of golf each day and free golf cart rentals for the entire stay. Club storage is also included.

Noting that the summer traveler often times like to keep on the move, and not stay in one place any too long, the Innisbrook management also has come up with a two night, three-day golf plan that begins at $66 per person based on double occupancy of a club suite. Each of the golf packages is available from June through the end of September and increase only slightly thereafter.

Nightly rates at the unique resort from June through September are $24 in a club suite, single or double without extra charge for children under 12, under the European plan. Guests may add $11 per night for modified American plan arrangements.

To date, the response to the golf packages and low summer rates has been very encouraging.

In any event, according to Bearce, whether the person who travels to Innisbrook wants golf, tennis, finishing, basketball or simply wants to lie in the sun, it can be found on-site. He added that further information regarding the resort may be obtained by writing Innisbrook Resort and Golf Club, Tarpon Springs, Florida 33589.

Hobeau Farm's late-running Tunex is now 8 years old and getting ready for another campaign under trainer Allen Jenkins. Jockey John Ruane has won 15 races with the veteran gelding.

Sweating over football in July

By TOM MOORADIAN

Harry Hidenfelter, the dean of the area athletic directors, and the Detroit Wheels of the World Football League, are apparently thinking on the same lines, despite the torrid July heat.

Though the high school football year doesn't begin until Sept. 14, the Belleville High School AD had already completed his schedule and mailed it in.

The Wheels, of course, will launch their inaugural WFL season on July 10 at Memphis.

Unbelievable, isn't it? From July until mid-January we will be getting huge doses of football. And, one can only speculate what that will do to the sport.

DO YOU REMEMBER back in the early days of TV when they programmed nightly boxing bouts as if the sport was about to be outlawed? Well, they almost killed the boxing. The sport is only recently recovering from that overexposure.

Will football suffer the same consequences?

Time will tell.

And, speaking of time, we're busy planning ahead for our Fifth Annual Football Special, a feature which has been successful with local grid fans and coaches in the past.

The "Special" includes pictures and stories of local high school football teams, their schedules; stories about the college and pro squads and a lot more.

And, as we know how time flies, we'd appreciate it if the local fans would mail us anything they have about past-present-and maybe future grid stars to include in the tab.

WE WOULD also like to incorporate something about our Little League organizations in the area. The groups in Westland, Wayne, Garden City, Inkster, Romulus and Belleville have done a tremendous job with these young gridders and it's time they received recognition.

So, we'll look forward to receiving any bits of information you may have.

TOM BALDWIN, the rookie football coach from Romulus High School, stepped in from out of the heat yesterday and I almost asked the "youngster" what high school he's attending.

The good-looking, ex-Ferris State end, is a mere 23-years-old, (he'll be 24 later this month) and he stopped by to "make personal contact", before "the busy football season."

If enthusiasm wins football games, then Romulus will be a winner this season. Baldwin generates all the enthusiasm in the world.

But as we "old folks" know, it's going to take a little bit more than enthusiasm to win in these parts.

Roger Wilkes missed last year's exciting City Championship Golf Tournament held at Fellow's Creek Golf Course.

Wilkes isn't taking any chances of missing it this year.

"I have made sure that I will be able to play in it," said Wilkes, the first area golfer to draw our attention that "it's that time again."

"If you people are going to sponsor the tourney, I would like to get all of the particulars, now," he said.

Definitely, the city championship golf tourney is on our docket for August, but we don't have all of the information. Over the years the amateur tournament, opened to residents in Garden City, Wayne, Westland and Inkster, has grown in popularity and size.

LAST YEAR nearly 125 area golfers competed and 10 years ago one was hard-pressed to find 50 from the surrounding cities who wanted to vie for the titles.

The format for the amateur tournament remains the same: separate city championships will be held simultaneously for amateur male golfers from all four competing cities.

And the top five finishers will travel to the state recreation golf tournament.

The recreation departments are the co-sponsors of the meet.

Romulus LL to hold elections

A general meeting of the Romulus Little League will be held at 8 p.m. July 24 at the Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Rd.

The election of new officers will highlight the meeting.

Top shot

Six teenagers from Trenton, have won the ninth annual Shooting Education Championship.

The youngsters, competing with air rifles, piled up 2,397 points, including 16 bullseyes, to beat a team from Joplin, Mo., by three points.

The team included Linda Koteles, Brian Tiefer, Jill and Jeff Spry, Cathy Ravas and Dan Badgley. All are between 12 and 14 years old.

A CHALLENGE — If you don't hit the ball straight, golf at the Innisbrook Resort and Golf Club becomes an exercise in "Wait a minute, fellas, I've got to look for my ball." A series of lakes, tight fairways, a generous supply of pine trees and lightning-quick greens makes Innisbrook's three courses among the most challenging in the country. The foursome in this photo is shown playing the challenging Sandpiper Course.

Dapsi continues to star

Dave Dapsi, Belleville High's contribution to the All-Area baseball team this season, continued his torrid hitting streak as he drilled a home run to lead Belleville's Connie Mack team to a 9-0 victory over Saline.

Dapsi also collected two other hits to personally account for three of the six hits given up by losing pitcher Jeff Pruitt.

Lee Stiltner tossed a two-hitter as Belleville stretched its winning streak to seven. They are undefeated. Lee also notched 17 strikeouts.

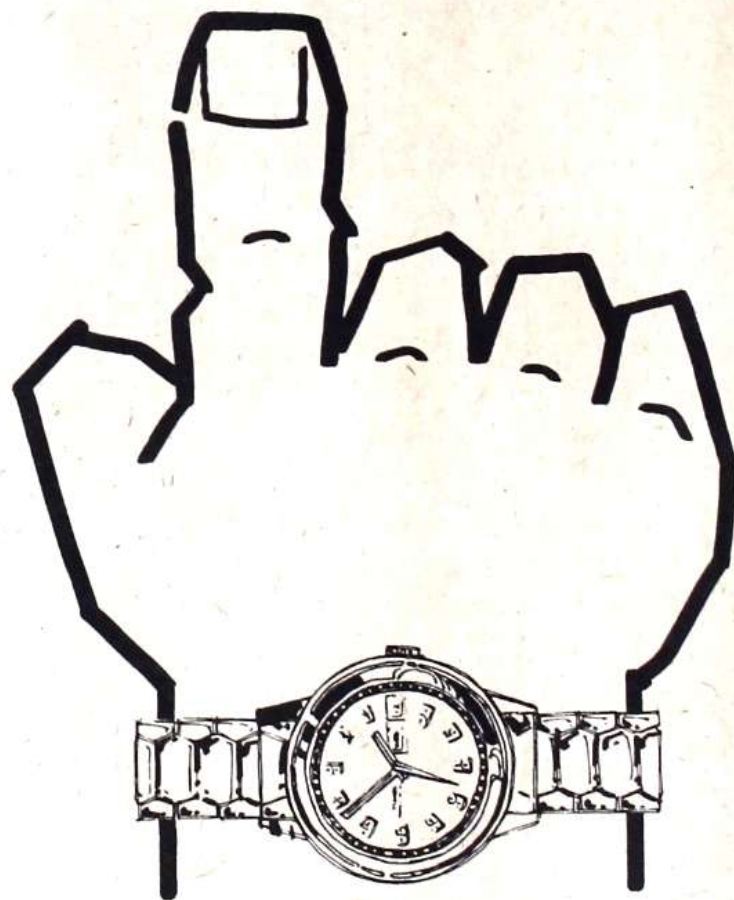

MEANWHILE, in Adray League action, Belleville split as it turned back Marshall 4-2 behind Jerry Cole's seven-hitter, but dropped a 1-0 ball game to Ann Arbor Baskin Robbins.

Robbins' hurler Kevin Bara chalked up a no-hitter and struck out 12.

Gerard Memering and Tim Vance saw action on the mound for Belleville. Vance was tagged for the loss. The two gave up a total of six hits, two of those going to Jeff Ostrike.

National's weekend rate of only $8.50 a day, 14¢ a mile left Don Rickles speechless.

National Car Rental dared Don Rickles to try to criticize their weekend deal. But how could he criticize National's low rate of $8.50 a day and 14¢ a mile. (You pay for gas.) And that's for a car like a Chevy Monte Carlo. You can pick it up any time after Thursday 6PM. Return it by Monday 6PM to the renting city. All National asks is that you use the car a minimum of two days.

National's low weekend rate. It's so good all Don could say was, "These people are trying to go broke!"

For weekend festival

Captive Nations take over 'river'

The smells, sights and sounds of the Captive Nations will take over the Detroit riverfront this weekend in the ninth of the city's summer ethnic festivals.

Under the sponsorship of the City of Detroit, the 3-day festival will include representatives of the 11 countries under Communist control.

Those nationalities taking part in the weekend's activities are from the countries of Armenia, Poland, Croatia, Romania, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Slovakia, Ukraine and Byelorussia.

THE FESTIVAL'S opening ceremonies will be at 6 p.m. Friday and will feature Captive Nations Festival Queen Maria Pleskacz of Entertainment

Royal Oak.

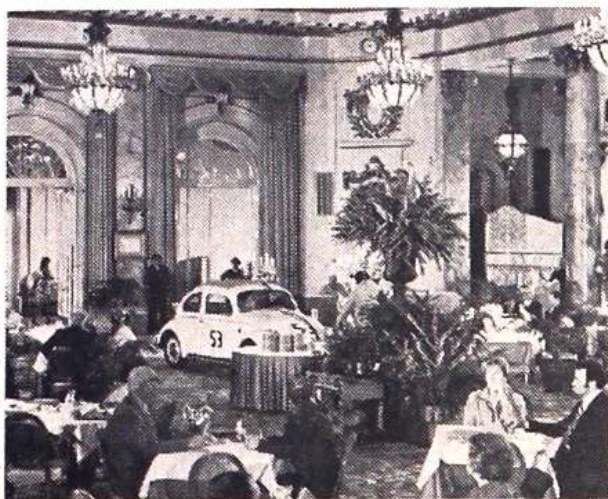

Twenty singing, musical, and dancing groups will provide the entertainment while local residents display such crafts as egg decorating and embroidery.

A special ecumenical service will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Kennedy Square, Woodward at Fort Street, following by a march to the festival site for a commemorative program at 4 p.m.

Festival-goers will have a chance to sample such ethnic delicacies as Armenian shish-kebab and pastry, Lithuanian sausage and sauerkraut, Polish pierogi, Slovakian goulash, kolace, holubky and prophy and Ukrainian halutz and kapusta while visiting the various cultural booths.

open from 6 to 11 p.m. Friday and from noon to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The department of transportation has arranged bus service to the festival. Information on the transit service is available by calling 224-1999 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on weekdays.

HERBIE'S BACK — Walt Disney has staged a return of Herbie, the love bug, a cantankerous car that has its owners up in the air in "The Love Bug Rides Again." In a scene from the movie, the car decides to take a short cut to the market through the garden court of a swank San Francisco hotel.

Detroit Music Hall lines up 4 Broadway music productions

The Detroit Music Hall for the Performing Arts has lined up four Broadway plays as part of its summer musical presentation.

Leading off the performances will be Rogers and Hammerstein's classic "South Pacific," which is celebrating its 25th anniversary on stage.

The play, which will be at the music hall Tuesday through July 21, stars Jerome Hines, Dorothy Collins and Sylvia Sims.

THE MOOD WILL change to hard rock when the American tribal love rock musical, "Hair," takes over the music hall's stage for a one-week visit. Many members of the original off-Broadway cast will recreate the "Age of Aquarius" July 23 through 28. Following the rock sounds will be "Sugar," the stage version of the movie "Some Like It Hot."

Set to run from Aug. 6 through 11, the play stars Allen Seus with music and lyrics by Julie Styne and Bob Merrill.

ROUNDING OUT the summer lineup will be "Anything Goes," a musical with lyrics and music by Cole Porter. The play stars Ann Miller and will be at the music hall from Aug. 13 to Aug. 18.

Tickets for the plays are available in a summer series at a 25 per cent reduction or individually. Ticket information can be obtained by calling the music hall at 963-7680. Children, student and senior citizen rates are available for all performances.

OUR TIME — Parker Stevenson (left) and Pamela Sue Martin share the joys of first love in the Warner Bros. romantic drama "Our Time." Set in New England in the 1950s, the movie surveys the two first love affairs of two high school seniors. The movie was directed by Peter Hymas and produced by Richard Roth.

Top blues singer to stage concert

He sings "without pretensions to worldliness." His style has been called "melodic and simple; a personal style that touches one's emotions in a restrained way" by reviewers.

He is Bill Withers, a young black singer-composer who rose rapidly from a career installing toilets on Boeing 747s to one of the top male rhythm and blues stars in the country today.

Piling hit upon hit with such tunes as "Ain't No Sunshine," "Lean on Me," "Grandma's Hands," and "Use Me," Withers continues to prove to his public that he is more than just another of the rock scene's one-time stars.

BILL WITHERS

"I get to play a lot of characters along the way and each one is as real to me as the other," he said. "Mostly music to me is different attitudes: affection, vulnerability, male-female interaction, the entire spectrum of human experiences. The uninitiated will understand what he means when they see Bill Withers in concert."

Agency develops camper brochure

With camping becoming increasingly popular, and gas prices rising, residents of Western Wayne County may be interested in where they can camp without using too much fuel.

The Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association (SMTTA) has helped them learn of the good places to camp and save gas by publishing a new folder.

To fill the need, the SMTTA has produced a new folder listing the private, county and municipal and township and state parks, to be found in the 8-county southeast Michigan region.

The folder also lists where campers can obtain equipment. It's available free by contacting the association at 1200 Sixth St., Detroit, 48226, in care of the State Office building.

THE EXORCIST — Chris MacNeill, played by Ellen Burstyn, attempts to comfort her afflicted daughter, played by Linda Blair, in a scene from "The Exorcist." Based on the novel by William Peter Blatty, the movie deals with demonic possession and the religious act of driving out the inhibitor.

Residents can get free counseling

Wayne State University's free individual counseling service, regularly available to Western Wayne County residents during the academic year, again is being offered for the summer.

To obtain further information, contact Allen Hoffman, coordinator of the center, at 577-1658.

Fire damages house

A mid-morning fire swept through a Romulus home, causing an estimated $30,000 damage.

No one was injured in the Friday morning blaze. The house, located at 38367 Wabash, was owned by Wade Wylie.

According to Romulus Fire Department officials, the fire began in a garage and swept through a breezeway into the house. Exact cause of the blaze still is under investigation.

Wylie's wife was in the house when the fire started, but escaped through a front door.

Officials said that portions of the house were gutted, but that the home was "not a total loss."

In September of 1973, City of Belleville requested a 10 p.m. curfew for Victory Park and also requested the Board of Wayne County Commissioners to prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages in Victory Park. The early closing time was approved; however the Ways and Means Committee did not want to ban alcoholic beverages and suggested that either the City of Belleville lease the park or perhaps accept the park under a deed. City of Belleville to review this and reply.

Stuart Potts spoke before the council and congratulated to City on the speedy clean-up. He also asked for ½ load of dirt to be placed on his berm. This he stated would rectify his problems. The street commissioner assured Mr. Potts that appropriate action would be taken.

Mr. Palmer reported that Michigan Bell supplied a survey regarding the cost of different types of telephone services that were available to the City. Mr. Palmer stated that he will continue to investigate the possibility of finding a lower cost for telephone service.

WE ARE The HELPFUL People

We Sold a Home in Oklahoma City

What's so unusual is the fact that we never saw the home. And we've sold homes in Kingman, Chicago, Decatur, and even in Windsor, all in the same manner. And in each case, the owners were completely convinced the price obtained and the manner in which the sale was handled, was in their best interest. We, like you, must depend on competent people to properly advise us. And because we are a member of NATIONWIDE REFERRAL SYSTEM, information in each locality and the services of top-flight Realtors, in fact, an entire network, is available to us across the country.

So if you're contemplating a move to another area, we invite you to obtain any information you require, in any location, without cost or obligation, by giving us a phone call.

Nationwide is another exclusive membership that EARL KEIM REALTY offers to serve you even better.
